NUMBER 45

THE CONFERENCE.

In the list of homes assigned to members of the Conference last week, there were some errors made. A number of gentlemen, who had agreed to board members, had not given to the Committee the boarding houses selected, and were left off the list. We publish a few more names to-day. If any one is left off the list who have agreed to take members of the Conference, it is by mistake. Some who have agreed to board members of the Conference, have not yet reported to the Committee the boarding places selected. They are requested to do this before the 25th. All persons who have agreed to take, are requested to be upon the square Tuesday evening as the preachers arrive.

ORDINATION AT RUSSELL SPRINGS.

On September 8, 1907, pursuant to the call of Mt. Vernon Baptist Church upon Russell Springs Baptists, of Russell Springs, C., to ordain one of her members, who had been called to the care of said Mt. Vernon Church, to the full work of the gospel ministry, a Presbytery was called, composed of (when organized,) J. M. Pierce, Moderator, J. Grider, Secretary, W. B. Cave to question candidate on articles of faith, and to preach the sermon, C. B. Breeding to lead the prayer, C. M. Deener to give charge to both candidates at church. J. Wade, pastor of Russell Spring church, together with Deacons from Welfare and Mt. Vernon Churches. The candidate was rigidly examined and found to be sound in faith and doctrines of the Bible. The sermon was preached from Second Timothy 2: 15-17.

The Assembly was dismissed by candidate, Bro. B. F. Vols.

MARRIED IN CHICAGO ILL.

The intelligence of the marriage of Dr. Almon Jones to Miss Lena Williams, did not reach us in time for our last week's issue. They were married at Chicago, Ill., August 31, where Dr. Jones was taking a post-graduate course. This union was not a surprise to those who have been on the inside, as the couple had been going together for several years. The groom is a son of Dr. J. T. Jones, Montpelier, and is a physician who has been given quite a superior advantage, a gentleman of high character. The bride is a most excellent young woman—no better in Adair county, possessing all the characteristics which go to make up true womanhood. At this writing it is not known where the couple will locate.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, The Supreme Grand Master of the universe has called from his labors here on earth, to eternal refreshments above, our beloved brother, G. Whit Flowers, in his 71st year, therefore,

Resolved, That Gradyville Lodge, No. 251, F. and A. M. has lost a true and faithful member, his wife a faithful companion, his children a devoted father, the Church and community a Christian in the truest sense.

Second, That this Lodge extend to the bereft family its heartfelt sympathy in this great hour of affliction.

Third, That these resolutions be spread upon the record book of this Lodge and a copy sent to each of the county papers for publication, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

W. M. Wilmore,
S. A. Taylor,
Committee.

IMPROVING.

Mr. David Garvin, of this place, who fell from a scaffold at his residence of Mr. J. T. Mercer, Milltown, last week, dislocating his shoulder and receiving other bodily injuries, is improving, but it will be some days before he will be able to resume work. Immediately after the accident Mr. Garvin was conveyed to his home in Columbia where he received medical attention and where he could be under care of his family.

MR. JOHN ROYSE DEAD.

A paper from Sherman, Texas, gives an account of the death of Mr. John Royse, which occurred in that city August 17. The deceased was a native of Adair county, a brother of Mr. Solomon Royse and Mrs. Stephen Conover. The deceased was sixty-five years old, and very popular in Sherman, where he resided a number of years. The paper stated that his death was caused by a bite inflicted by some kind of insect. He leaves a wife.

Circuit Court brought a large crowd to Columbia last Monday, and business was lively with all the merchants from early in the morning until late in the afternoon. There were a number of stock dealers here, and quite a number of mules and horses changed hands. Jockey street was crowded with horse swappers, and a number of men went home riding a different horse from the one they came in on. Speaking of horse jockeying it is said that five or six men in this county make their living in that way, only.

One of the best sermons delivered in this town for many moons came from Rev. A. R. Kasey last Sunday night. It was at union services held at the Baptist church, a very large congregation being out. No speaker was ever accorded closer attention. His subject was the love of God for his earthly children, plainly showing that the way to the celestial city was plain, and if men and women did not enter therein it was their own fault.

The Louisville Conference will convene in Columbia next Wednesday. Preachers from all over the State will be here, and during the week it will be in session our people will be given an opportunity, to hear some of the strong men of the Methodist Church.

Eld. W. K. Azbill will fill the pulpit at Christian Church next Sunday forenoon.

VICTIM OF CANCER.

Mr. Adolph Myers, who was a citizen of Columbia, having removed to this place from Hardin county, several years ago, died in St. Mary and Elizabeth hospital, Louisville, last Saturday at 11:45 o'clock a. m. He was sixty-two years old, and was afflicted with a cancer, having gone to Louisville for treatment. He was a quiet, good citizen, and at one time was Town Marshal of Columbia. He leaves a number of children, all of whom, as we understand, reside in Hardin county.

Young & Coffey sold their handsome three year old show stallion, "Highland Peacock," to W. L. Grady, of this county. The price paid was private, but we are informed that it was the highest price ever paid in this section of Kentucky for a saddle colt of his age. This colt has been shown the past two seasons through Southern Kentucky and a part of Tennessee, where he won many blue ties, and the admiration of all horse lovers who saw him exhibited. He was sired by Jordan Peacock 1148, and bred by James Clayton, of Cressboro, Ky., who now owns his dam. She is a descendant of the great Artist family, being by Raven Artist, 1043; he by Artist 75. Mr. Grady is now at Cookville, Tenn., where he will show his fine string of horses this week.

Mr. J. C. Strange, who is at work on Mr. Walker Bryant's residence met with a very serious accident last Wednesday. He was using his pocket knife, the blade slipping, and the index finger of his left hand was almost severed. It will be ten days or more before he can use the finger.

Mrs. W. F. Hancock will have her millinery goods exhibited the first of next week. She has purchased a very attractive stock and respectfully invites all her friends to call at her store. Miss Carlisle is with her.

Henry and Porter Polson are condemned to hang at Albany, December 6, 1907. They murdered an old lady named Julia Brown. An appeal will be taken. Judge Jarvis has passed sentence on the condemned men.

Mrs. James Garnett entertained a number of her Columbia lady friends and also several lady visitors last Wednesday evening. Refreshments were served and the evening very enjoyably spent.

Rev. E. W. Coakley preached at the Baptist Church last Sunday forenoon. At the close of his discourse there were two additions to the church, Misses Mary and Corinne Shearer, daughters of Eld. Trabue Shearer.

It is our understanding that the S. W. Bryan Institute Campbellsville, opened with flattering prospects. The first day about eighty pupils matriculated and that number was augmented during the week.

The Baptist Academy at Campbellsville opened with eighty-seven pupils, and up to last Friday the number had increased to ninety-seven. The outlook is very promising to the management.

Mr. James McGee, of Somerset, son of Mrs. Della McGee, was married last week to Miss Willie Kersey, of Monterey, Tenn. The couple are now with the groom's mother, in Somerset.

LOST—A pocket book containing some money and a lot of notes. The finder will leave at this office. The finder will be rewarded.

Geo. J. Hurt.

We very much regret that we were unable to publish all of Judge S. W. Hager's opening speech in this issue. The remainder, about six and a half columns, will appear next week.

It was but little trouble last week to find life insurance agents upon the square. Every time you turned around you faced one.

Recital at Lindsay-Wilson next Saturday evening Miss Shannon assisted by Miss Pendian. Every body invited.

The Methodist church is completed. Union services will be held there next Sunday evening, the sermon to be preached by Rev. J. C. Cook.

FELLOWSHIP AND UNITY.

I do not believe there is another town in Kentucky which can boast of as much visible love and unity between the various ministers and their congregations as Columbia when the size and population are taken into consideration. A beautiful instance of this kindly spirit and the fellowship between two ministers of the gospel was exhibited at the Christian Church Sunday morning.

The Rev. A. R. Kasey, pastor of the Methodist Church, occupied the pulpit, and at the close of his sermon in a few eloquent and well chosen words he tendered his sincere thanks to the Christian minister and his congregation for the use of their church during the past two months, while the Methodist church was being remodeled. In the absence of the pastor, Elder Z. T. Williams, Elder W. K. Azbill responded to Rev. Kasey's expression of thanks and gratitude, and said that in speaking for Eld. Williams, he was sure that it had been, both a pleasure and a profit as well as edifying to have had Rev. Kasey and his congregation worship with them, as it was a token of unity and oneness of the Lord's people, and true Christian spirit. Another invitation was extended by Eld. Azbill, to Rev. Kasey and his congregation to make the Christian church their home for services again, at any future time they may desire to. The first services in the newly remodeled Methodist church will be next Sunday evening.

F. Mc. L.

Born, to the wife of W. D. Bridgewater, September 14th, a 10 pound son.

Mrs. J. D. Walker and Mrs. Jo Coffey, Sr., Spent the day at Mrs. Harriet Yates, of Gradyville, last Friday.

Mr. John Waller Johnston, the clothing man, will be here on Monday, September 30. See his ad and come to see him.

G. Rasner has sold his stock of groceries to Al Sinclair. Mr. Rasner will continue to run a meat shop in the same building.

Mr. N. M. Tutt has razed his old residence, on Burkesville street, and preparations are now being made for a handsome brick home.

Mr. J. O. Russell has now the convenience of water works at his residence. The outfit was put in operation last Friday, by Mr. J. F. Patteson.

The finder of my money purse containing some small change and watch key will please leave at News office, John Johnson.

FOR SALE—High class seed oats and wheat. Samples at the News office. CALDWELL BROS., Burdick, Ky. 45-2t

Russell & Co., are advertising their Fall stock of goods—the most complete stock they have ever opened up and that means a great deal to those who have examined their previous displays.

CLEMENTSVILLE.

It has been raining on the just as well as the unjust.

The recent rains have made the corn crops in this county the best for many years.

Last week new sorghum was made by Hilary Wethington, the expert lasses manufacturer of this community.

At Bernard's Parochial school at this place opened its doors on Monday, September 2nd, with an attendance of 67 pupils. Since then the number has increased to 71 with prospects of many more. An assistant teacher will be employed within a few days. It speaks well for this school that at its very onset it has received generous patronage from the community.

Mr. Thomas King of Campbells-ville, is making concrete foundation and porch for Ward and Wethington's new store.

Miss Mattie Wethington and Mr. Fladgett Clements, both of Campbellsville, will be united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. A. L. O. Shea at St. Bernard's church on Tuesday morning, September 17. Both are popular young people of this section and have the best wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy life.

Mr. Maxwell, a turner for the Royer Wheel plant of this city is visiting friends at Portland, Indiana. Uncle "Pins" and Martha Wethington of this section are in Campbellsville on business this week.

Mr. Gail Brown, of the Brush Creek section paid us a pleasant visit this week.

Mr. Eugene Wethington has purchased a new buggy, and will doubtless spend his declining years in ease and happiness.

There will soon be an effort made to organize a society in this city to be known as the "Sons of Rest" or "Non-Sweaters." It will be composed only of men opposed to manual labor. Any member found assisting his wife or mother in toting wood, water or any other chores will be considered an unfriendly act to the society.

CIRCUIT COURT.

A very large crowd was in Columbia last Monday, the opening of circuit court. Judge Baker opened court promptly at 10 o'clock and the remainder of the forenoon was occupied in instructing the grand jury. The jury is composed of twelve good men and the usual instructions were given. The following compose the two juries:

GRAND JURY,

W. B. Cave Foreman, Bro. Royse, J. E. Flowers, W. H. C. Sandidge, John Johnson, Dink Dillingham, John M. Conover, Valentine Leftwich, Mont Montgomery, G. R. Akin, King Rogers, and George Flowers.

PETIT JURY,

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

Miss Minnie Triplett of this place, who is spending the Fall at Petosky, Mich., was operated on for appendicitis in that city last Sunday week. Her brothers here did not know the operation was going to be performed until after it was over, though they had been notified that she was threatened with the complaint. Miss Minnie's friends will be glad to know that she stood the operation, nicely and is rapidly improving, as every mail brings that information.

Mr. J. O. Russell will build a modern cottage on a lot opposite her residence. Mr. A. D. Co is the contractor, and the work will commence at once. It is our information that Mr. Jo Russell and wife will occupy the cottage.

Stock Sales

I. C. Winfrey, of Cumberland county, sold a combined horse to Mr. Vanhoy for $140.

John Holladay sold Bennett and Walker 47 hogs at $5.60 per hundred. He also sold Charles Herriford 18 head of cattle for $111. To L. B. Cain 3 head for $72.

Albert Ware sold last week to Mr. George Phillips, one suckling colt sired by young Kentucky Squirrel, owned by Henry Griffin of Taylor county, for the sum of $125.—Coburg Cor.

Taken up as a stray, by M. O. Stevenson, living northeast of Columbia about 2 miles, 1 white male hog. No mark except 2 black spots on each side; about 18 months old. Given under my hand this 31st of August, 1907. 43-4t JOHN EUBANK, J. P. A. C.

OPENING CUN OF THE CAMPAIGN

Fired by Judge S. W. Hager
the Gubernatorial Nominee,
In Presence of Democratic Hosts at Lexington.

Party Platform Outlined, and Record of Deeds of the Party's Officials Reviewed.

Not a Dodger on Any Issue of the Campaign.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 31.—Before a vast concourse of Kentucky Democrats, assembled here today, Judge S. W. Hager of Boyd county, nominee of the party for governor of the commonwealth, made the initial speech of his campaign. Outlining a party platform, for the plans of which he stood when seeking the nomination, and which was adopted by the voters of the party when they nominated him, pointing out the many good features of Democratic administration in the past seven and one-half years, and insuring the people of the state that Kentucky will not be behind in progressiveness in the next four years if Democracy is continued in power, Judge Hager's address made a splendid impression. He spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: The time has come when the voters of this commonwealth are to choose a governor and other state officers who for the ensuing four years are to perform the duties and exercise the powers pertaining to the different departments of the executive branch of the state government. It is for them to say not only who shall be the governing authorities, but also by what principles, in what manner, and under what policies the affairs of the state shall be administered. Indeed, it is the province of the voters, in their sovereign wisdom, to define and prescribe in a great measure, if not wholly, the very lines along which state affairs shall be conducted; for, as has been said, it is they who finally determine all matters of government, all policy. This being true it is of the highest importance that each individual voter, whatever may have been or may now be his party affiliation, should consider thoughtfully and carefully the claims made by the two political parties for his support. For if error creeps in, if mistakes are made and evil ensue, the blow falls heaviest upon the individual, whose property is taxed to support and maintain the state government and its institutions, and whose prosperity and happiness depend upon the policies and principles behind the governing power and the fidelity with which they are enforced. The ultimate responsibility, then, for good or evil in state affairs resting in the voter, it is his duty, just to him, in order that he may act with intelligence, that the candidates seeking his suffrage should give a full and complete expression of the views they represent upon the various questions and issues which most nearly affect him and his interests, and the interests of the state at large. It is of the utmost importance to him that he should know these views, and, knowing them, he should thoughtfully consider them, it should be his duty to act upon them conscientiously as his judgment may dictate.

Mr. Ryan says "platforms should be made by the voters," that "platforms should be the expression of the wishes of the voters" of the party, and not the arbitrary production of a few leaders. There are two ways in which such a consummation may be reached. The first is by the election of delegates to a nominating convention who, in their canvass for election, present for the consideration of the voters a statement of principles and policies for which they stand, and for which they will contend as members of the convention. Delegates elected under such conditions may truly speak for the voters, and in such way the voters may make the platform. But even then there is still opportunity for manipulation by the "fine Italian hand" of the arbitrary party leader. The second and surer way is through the medium of a primary election, in which the party nominees are chosen directly by the voters themselves, that candidate for nomination being chosen whose declaration of policies and principles and whose attitude toward public affairs prove satisfactory to the voters. In this way the platform is "made by the voters" beyond all question.

Nominated as I was in a primary election, after a canvass in which the principles and policies to which I hold were enunciated and discussed from one end of the state to the other, I can assure you, my fellow citizens, the commissioned candidate of the Democratic party for the office of governor, with a platform made in just such way as Mr. Ryan truly says it should be made. Some of the more important declarations presented for the endorsement of the Democratic voters, briefly state, were the following:

Democratic Platform—Its Eleven Planks.

1. Insistence upon faithfulness and economy in the management of public affairs; demanding that public office shall be recognized as a public trust.
2. That for the impartial and energetic enforcement of all laws.
3. That there shall be no expenditure of public money except in obedience to law, and that strict economy shall be observed in public expenditures.
4. In favor of fostering and developing the educational interests of the state.
5. Insistence upon just and reasonable rates for all public utility service from the railroads within principles fair alike to the railroads and the public.
6. Requiring that all corporations shall bear their just and due proportion of the burden of taxation—no less and no more; that they shall come up to the full requirements of the revenue laws—all interests being placed on an equal footing in the matter of taxation.
7. Welcoming every reform in administrative methods that will reduce the cost of government to the people.
8. Favoring improvement in every respect possible in the conduct of the state's public institutions, especially with regard to asylums for the insane.
9. Advocating the promotion of the material development of the state, and of conditions that invite the investment of capital within our borders.
10. Expressing opposition to all economic policies that make for the upbuilding of trusts or other combinations that operate to oppress both consumer and producer of the products of the farm.
11. Calling for faithful adherence to the constitution, and to the Jeffersonian doctrine of justice and equal rights to all.

Party Voters Made Platform in Primary.

Such declaration of principles and policies was presented to the Democrats in my speeches throughout the state, and in awarding me the nomination, they gave it approval and adopted it by their free votes.

I do not, therefore, come before you with a perfunctory platform, formulated by a few leaders and languidly adopted, without debate, by a meagerly attended convention, but with one that has been made and approved as their own, by the direct, untrammeled votes of thousands of my fellow-Democrats for whose consideration it was presented. And now, appearing before the people as a whole, as the representative of my party, I wish, to such extent as present conditions may require and my commission from my party may warrant, to emphasize and amplify the platform upon which the Democratic party has placed its seal of approval, I feel justified in expecting the support of every Democratic voter, and I trust that many others, my fellow citizens, approving the principles and policies for which the Democratic representatives stand, will see that their duty, to themselves and to the state, also lies in the support of the Democratic ticket in this campaign.

Voters to Choose Between Parties.

Against the personal character and attainments of the gentleman who has the distinction of representing the Republican party as its candidate for governor, I have not one word to say. This is not a contest between persons. This is not a contest in which the personality of one candidate is to be weighed against the other. It is, in fact, not a contest to determine simply as to whether Mr. Willson as an individual, or I as an individual, shall occupy that exalted position. It is rather a contest which is to decide whether in this commonwealth the principles and policies of the Democratic party or those of the Republican party shall prevail. It is a contest in which you as voters are to decide your preferences. It is for you to say whether the state of Kentucky shall continue its progress under the wise, the businesslike, the economical, the safe and conservative policies which for nearly eight years have characterized the Democratic administration; or whether we shall again be subject to the misrule, the mismanagement and the failure attested by the Republican administration of public affairs. Would you rather see our beloved state, in peace and quiet moving on in the line of progress to take her place in the vanguard of states: her fertile fields full of the harvest; her cities aglow with the blaze of industry; commercial and industrial prosperity on every hand; her affairs carefully, ably and economically administered; free of debt; law and order prevailing and taxes at the lowest rate consistent with a wise and judicious administration of affairs which follows Democratic policies; or would you rather see her peace disturbed, her quiet broken; her progress checked, her rate higher, her institutions mismanaged; incompetence and extravagance in state affairs, all of which marked the only Republican administration Kentucky has ever had, and which we might reasonably expect would characterize any Republican administration.

Would you not rather see peace and quiet at the capital as it is today, undisturbed by the rattle of arms of the soldiery; the machinery of government running smoothly and without friction; each department of the state without challenge performing its functions, or would you rather witness the scene of a governor calling out the state militia to prevent the election of a United States senator, and the unspeakable horror of riot and disorder that existed when the great common people of the state were mortally wounded almost at the steps of the capitol, while the usurper Taylor surrounded himself with troops of soldiers and defied to the civil authorities the right to search for the assassin who fired the fatal shot from a window of the office of the Republican secretary of state, and not more than forty feet from where Taylor himself witnessed the tragedy?

It is for you to say which of these pictures is the brightest and fullest of hope. God forbid that the people of this state should ever again witness such scenes as were enacted when the then usurper and now fugitive Taylor filled the state capitol with hordes of outlaws to intimidate the legislature and precipitate a reign of riot and disorder.

State, Not National, Governments the

I confess a natural ambition to be the governor of this, the proudest of all the commonwealths; but that ambition is subservient to the interests of my people, and it is not upon any personal claim, but rather for the Democratic policies and principles I represent that I ask your support in this canvass.

The canvass in which we are engaged is a contest between the Republican and Democratic parties upon the policies of each as affecting the state, and is a contest in which national issues have no part except that upon the result of the election election depends whether or not Kentucky may be counted on with certainty to cast its electoral vote for the Democratic nominee for president in 1908.

The Republican party has always been the party of centralization. It is the party of high protection, under whose vicious principles great trusts have been formed and thrive. It is the party that for campaign purposes has extorted from the great corporations fabulous contributions, under promise of favorable legislation, such funds so contributed to be used for corrupting and debauching the American ballot.

It is the same party that, by its insidious policy of protection, taxes to the American consumer the articles of daily use, thus favoring capital and discriminating against labor. It is the same party that in Kentucky sought by violence and bloodshed to override the will of the people, and with the iron heel of the usurper trampled in the dust the constitution and the laws of the state. It is the same party that in convention assembled in 1900, when John W. Yerkes was nominated for governor, endorsed "without reserve" the "resolute and patriotic" course of W. S. Taylor, which resolute and patriotic course was a conspiracy, consummated in the assassination of Governor Goebel.

When a fearless and honest delegate boldly denounced that assassination upon the floor of the convention that nominated my opponent, Mr. Willson, and vigorously declared that "the man who killed Goebel, even though they thought they were working in the right interest of the Republican party, ought to be hanged. Every one of them should die for this crime, and if the party wants success it must not shrink from this issue, but must see that every man connected with this foul murder pays the full penalty of the law," he received not the slightest evidence of sympathy, but on the con-

Health in the Canal Zone.

The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artisans to join the force of skillful workmen needed to construct the Panama Canal. Many are restrained however by the fear of fevers and malaria. It is the knowing ones—those who have used Electric Bitters, who go there without this fear, well knowing that they are safe from malarious influence with Electric Bitters on hand. Cures blood poison too, biliousness, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Guaranteed by T. E. Paul, druggist. 50c.

NORTHWEST TEXAS.

100,000 acres of rich, Texas land, convenient to railroads, produces finest alfalfa, cotton, corn, also a good stock country. The climate is ideal, and the altitude about 2,500 feet. All kinds of fruits do well. Price from $10 and up per acre; cash and balance to suit purchaser. Any one desiring to investigate this proposition write

Lost and Found.

Lost, between 9:30 p. m., yesterday and noon today, a bilious attack, with nausea and sick headache. This loss was occasioned by finding at T. E. Paul's drug store a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. Guaranteed for biliousness, malaria and jaundice. 25c.

The Touch That Heals.

Is the touch of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the happiest combination of Arnica flowers and healing balsams ever combined. No matter how old the sore or ulcer is, this Salve will cure it. For burns, scalds, cuts, wounds or piles, it has no equal. Guaranteed by T. E. Paul, Druggist. 25c.

trary a stubborn opposition has spread over that body of Republican delegates and an ominous frown of disapproval of that sentiment, marked with emphasis the features of all.

Kentucky Democrats Faithful to Principles.

The Democratic party is and has always been the party of the people. It is in favor of equal and exact justice to all and against any class or special legislation, by which one person profits and another suffers disadvantage. It believes that every man, whatever and however lowly may be his station in life, shall have an equal chance under the law and that he shall not be discriminated against. It is opposed to the policy of a protective tariff under the iniquitous operations of which great trusts are formed and fostered and reasonable competition, which is the life of free America's industries, is crushed out.

In Kentucky ours is not a party of promises only, but a party of performance as well. It has never made a pledge to the people of the state that it has not faithfully and scrupulously kept. Along its course are no haunting spirits of unfulfilled promises. The McChord railroad bill, promised by the Democratic party to the people, which was voted by the legislature of 1893 but vetoed by Governor Bradley, has become a law, under the just operations of which freight rates in the commonwealth have been lowered and equalized to the great benefit of the shipper.

A uniform school book bill, the enactment of which was pledged by the Democratic party to the people, has been placed upon the statute books, and under its provisions and operations the price of the school books used in our common schools has been materially reduced, to the advantage of the children of the state. In these, as in all pledges, the Democratic party has kept faith with the people and has not been content with mere vapors or high-sounding declarations.

Without any pledge the Democratic party has given the people of Kentucky such temperance legislation as the sentiment of the times demanded.

As between these two parties and the policies and principles represented by each, you are to choose. You are the final arbiters, and to your judgment and choice the Democratic party pledges itself to bow in humble submission.

I love the state of Kentucky. Its very name is music to my ear. It is the synonym of bravery and of chivalry. In whatever land or clime a Kentuckian may roam, his energies are renewed, his strength increased and his drooping spirits raised, when he hears floating upon the air the strains of that sweetest of all songs, "My Old Kentucky Home."

For State Development, Industrial, Moral and Educational.

I am deeply interested in the development of our state in every sense that the word implies—industrial, moral and educational. It is my desire to see floating upon the sea of commerce the yet untold and undeveloped resources of our great commonwealth.

In the mountains to the east, and in the lower lands to the west, are vast deposits of coal and other minerals, and even in the central counties are great veins and beds of mineral wealth. These I wish to see developed and brought into market, so that the world may learn of our wealth and we may reap abundant of other states in the march of progress. I endorse, without reserve, every organization and every agency that has for its purpose the agricultural, industrial, mineral and commercial advancement of the state. As the running stream carries its sparkling crystals into the greater body of water into which it flows, so would I have the stream of development carry into the markets of the world the wonderful resources of our state. To the end that this development may be the more fully assured, I am in favor of wise and liberal laws affecting commercial enterprises. I am in favor of such laws as will invite the investment of capital in the state and protect such investment, rather than of laws that would frighten capital away or hedge it about with too many and unjust restrictions. I am in favor of all laws as well as all agencies tending to encourage the formation and establishment of new industries and placing them in operation. Every new industry established, every new commercial enterprise that is launched, every mine that is opened, every manufacturing establishment that is put in operation is of great benefit to the state, and though it may of itself mean but little, it is a part of the great plan of development which we all have in mind and, which, under proper laws, will, in the natural order of things inevitably come.

If elected governor it shall be my constant purpose to advocate and urge the passage of such laws as will hasten and insure this development and thus provide at home a field of labor and enterprise for our young men, who constitute the state's greatest asset.

Kentucky's Future Depends Upon Education.

Hand in hand with the development of our state must go the education of our sons and daughters. In this advanced age, when competition is so sharp and wit means wit in the keen encounter, education plays a most important part in the contest and lends most powerful aid in the battle that is waged. There is no subject in which I am more deeply interested than that of the education of our young; for as the elders fall into the "scar and yellow leaf" and pass away, their places must be filled by those who are boys and girls today, but who will be the men and women of tomorrow. To the state this is a question of vital importance and one which should be most carefully considered. I am earnestly in favor of the improvement of our common school system and of increasing the educational facilities, so that a good common school education may be within the reach of even the poorest of the children of this commonwealth. It is with pleasure I review the action of the general assembly in establishing and providing for two additional normal schools for the state, which action was a direct advance toward higher education and for the better equipment of our teachers. We need more and better common schools and the improvement of our whole common school system. To insure the betterment of our common schools, it is important and essential that in some way better pay be provided for the teachers of those schools, thus making the profession more attractive and insuring a higher standard. The profession of teaching should be more fully recognized and its dignity and responsibility more fully appreciated. With the qualification that is essential to become a preceptor to the young, the profession of teaching should appeal to us as one full of dignity and honor. There is no more heroic or important figure than that of the country school teacher, who, in the little old school house on the hill, trains up the young in the rudiments of education and starts them on their destiny of independent thought. No less consecrated and no less important are the teachers of our city schools. There is no one singular of men and women united in a single purpose who can or do render to the state better or greater service than do these self-sacrificing teachers of our common schools.

Further Extension of School Term Urged.

The term of the common school should be lengthened, so that the pupils may have a better and fairer opportunity to become thoroughly grounded in each study. We should raise the standard of our common schools to a point commensurate with the needs of this advanced age, so that when the youth of our state shall have completed the course prescribed and gone forth with buoyant yet quickly pulsating heart to engage in the great battle of life, he may feel that he is equipped to meet every issue and to win in the struggle in which he is to engage. It is not every boy who can have the advantage of a collegiate training and to these the state owes the duty of providing the best public school facilities possible.

The future of the state depends upon the boys, and greatly upon the boys who can gain no further education than that afforded by our common schools.

The history of our country shows it is not those greatly favored in a worldly way and who have had the advantages of college education that have attained the largest measure of success. Some, if not most, of our great statesmen and generals have come from the ranks of the obscure. Andrew Jackson, born in a log hut in the pine woods of North Carolina with but little education and no means, passed from abject poverty into the exalted station of president of the United States. Daniel Webster left the plow on his father's farm in New Hampshire and thrust his way into the United States senate. Our own beloved Clay, "The mill boy of the slashes," left his humble home in the valleys of Virginia to become in the national congress a figure and a power as great as that of any of the great men of his age. Ulysses S. Grant turning from his father's tannery in Illinois, led the embattled hosts of the North to victory over the brave and gallant sons of the South, and made for himself a record that twice elevated him to the chief magistracy of our nation. Down in LaRue county, in a log hut on a little farm, was born a type of that rugged but lofty American mahood, Abraham Lincoln, who by the force of will and his native intelligence forged his way into the white house and occupies in history a place, and in the Hall of Fame a niche attained by few of America's great men. Thus we cannot say to what heights they may attain who are born in obscurity and poverty.

Make State College Great University.

Touching the question of higher education in the state, it is my opinion that the state college should be made a university equal to the best in the land; a university with a standard so high, with such variety and flexibility of courses, and with such equipment and apparatus for demonstration, that graduates of other first-class institutions may not feel the necessity of leaving the state to pursue post-graduate courses.

I hope to see this great school the pride of every teacher in the state; eye of every other educational institution in the state. The opportunity to build up a great university for the South is better here in Kentucky than in any other state south of Mason and Dixon's line. If elected governor I shall favor all well considered and feasible plans to make this college such a university as I have described.

Child Who Labors Not Overlooked.

In connection with the subject of education I am led to give brief attention to the agitation for laws prohibiting the employment of children, below a certain age, in mines and factories and commonplaces, and "Child Labor Laws." The children of the state, and especially those among the poorer class, need such legislation far more than the wage they would earn, for it is essential, in order that they may be prepared to meet the responsibilities of citizenship, that they have some training that fits them to understand the principles and policy of government, and it is also due the state of which they are to become citizens and voters, that as far as possible they should be so trained. It is upon the principle and reason, therefore, that the youth of our state should enjoy every possible chance for education that such laws should be enacted and made as far as possible they should be so trained. It is upon the principle and reason, therefore, that the youth of our state should enjoy every possible chance for education that such laws should be enacted and made as far as possible they should be so trained.

There is no more pitiable sight than that of young and tender boys and girls wearing away their lives in the smoky factory or dismal mine, evincing in their countenances the unsatisfactory effect of the confinement and strain incident to the work. But it is not alone or perhaps chiefly upon this ground, or for the reason that the physical growth and development of the boy and girl may be stunted and retarded, or that adults may be subjected to unfair competition by the employment of "child labor" in mines and factories, that such laws are desired. The chief reason for the support of such laws, is that by their early employment the children of the state are deprived of an opportunity to secure an education. They should and must be protected in their right to at least a common school education—an education which every child should have, and which, as has been shown by the cases of so many of our most successful men, will serve the purpose of qualifying the youth to meet the responsibilities of life.

To Strengthen Health and Similar Laws.

It is a matter of supreme importance that the health and lives of our citizens should be properly safeguarded by the enactment of sufficient and effective laws looking to the requirement of purity and high quality in the food and drink prepared for their consumption.

The laws now upon our statute books relating to this subject should be strengthened to such extent as may render them more useful, and such additional laws touching this matter as may, in the light of experience, become needed, should speedily be enacted.

No Laws Unjust to Capital and Labor.

The question of capital and labor has been one fraught with much agitation covering a period of many years. It is a question, the solution of the difficulties of which, is as important to the one as to the other. With a proper understanding of the equality of their interests and with a proper regard for the rights of each on the part of the other there should be no differences between them. The one is equally important with the other; without labor, capital is an inert entity, without capital the laborer cannot sell his hire and barter his brawn and muscle. Neither can do without the other and no law that has a tendency to strengthen the one at the expense of the other; no law that discriminates against the one or the other can be just or good. By the very nature of their relation to each other capital and labor are properly not antagonistic. They are naturally united the one to the other by a bond of co-operation which is to the interest of each to maintain, as neither can be effective without the other. An equal and exact balance between them should be preserved, and this balance, and the mutually cordial relations existing, should not be permitted by either to be disturbed by any artificial condition that may arise.

The organization of the great army of wage earners in this country is essential for their self-preservation and mutual advancement, and is as natural and legitimate as the organization of capital.

The Democratic party has always been the friend of labor in this country and has favored and encouraged its organization.

I am in favor of every proper law to protect labor from the encroachment of capital upon its rights, and every proper law that will preserve to cap-

JOHN B. CHENAULT.

It is known that A. E. Wilson, the Republican candidate for Governor, was bitter against Dr. W. G. Hunter for United States Senator, and it is also known that Dr. Hunter is keeping his mouth closed in this campaign. We reprint from the Somerset Journal the following: "The Eleventh district is to become a royal battle ground during the campaign. There exists no dissatisfaction among Democrats, but among the Republicans there are many wrinkles to be smoothed out if they hope to carry the district by as large a majority as formerly. The fight against Napier Adams, nominee for Clerk of the Court of Appeals on the Republican ticket is bitter and earnest, not only in Pulaski county, but in many other portions of the district. The lukewarmness of Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter, former Congressman and former American Minister to Gaudemala, is formidable. Mr. Wilson was a bitter antagonist to Dr. Hunter when the latter was the Republican nominee for United States Senator in 1895. It is claimed that Dr. Hunter and his friends have never forgotten the antagonism of Wilson, and they are lukewarm in their support of the Republican State ticket. Dr. Hunter is now the owner of all the public utilities in Somerset, and has also big land interests in Eastern Kentucky. He says that he is not taking any active part in politics, and while he may not be actively at work against Wilson, he is certainly doing nothing for him, and it is generally conceded that for a man of Dr. Hunter's influence to remain inactive will cost the Republican party many votes."

It is a little amusing to read in the Louisville Herald of the great crowds who are attending A. E. Wilson's speaking. At Harlan Court-House there were only five thousand. This statement covers, almost, every man, woman and child who live in Harlan county.

The campaign is warming up, and from now until the election is over the political news will be in evidence. As usual, the adherents of both parties will see favorable indications, while the enthusiastic element will see an unprecedented victory. The Democrats will figure on an unusual majority, and the Republicans will count up their game and land their ticket, no doubt, but all this will happen on estimates, hopes and ifs, while the voters of the State will set at naught the theories that now prevail. The old adage, "Nothing great is lightly won," is a good one, and from the evidence now confronting us, we feel certain that the victor in the coming election will be proud of the effort as well as the result. So far as the News is able to discern, political conditions are normal, and no great deviation in the returns from the voters need be expected. The ousting of the Louisville officials by the Appellate Court, is one of the straws that give hope and encouragement to the Republicans. The Democratic crusade on the liquor element of Louisville, and throughout the State, is another condition that inspires the leaders of that party. Combining the two, and jinking in the old campaign cry of political persecution, they have actually figured to win, and many of the rank and file really believe it. On the other side, the overthrow of the Louisville election, the appointments made by Governor Beckham enabling him to carry out the demands of the temperance people, impresses the belief that the loss of the liquor vote will be more than repaid by the gain in those who favor better living both in private and public life. At any rate, there is not likely to be a sweeping loss nor an astounding gain to either party. Outside of Louisville, political life is normal, and the State Democratic. The State never was so prosperous, and never was doing so much for the advancement of the people, morally, intellectually and financially. There is not a single reason to demand a change of parties, and not one to support the contention that one will be made. Republicans are active, but they will not find sleeping sentinels on the Democratic watch towers. If the people vote out, the result is not uncertain.

The Courier-Journal building was visited by another fire last Thursday and the upper stories of the building were flooded with water the damage being up in the thousands. It is now believed by many that the two fires was the work of an incendiary. The editors and reporters and printers of both the Courier-Journal and Times, the Times being in the same building, did not leave their posts, and while the fire was raging and the excitement was at the highest pitch, the Courier-Journal was printed and distributed as usual. You can brand the Old Lady with fire, but every morning she is on the street looking as fresh as a 16-year old and as happy as a lark. We are real sorry these fires occurred, but we are glad the devil cannot stop two of the best papers in the United States.

A Shifty lot of fellows, according to the Herald and Post, voted in the Bailey precinct, in Franklin County, in 1903. It seems that they have no politics and vote where it suits them. The Herald's report of these men was the first time the said voters had been heard from since the Colson and John D. White primary in which White beat Colson but the counting of these fellows for Colson in Bell county was kept up until it was announced that White was defeated and Colson was given the certificate of nomination.

Tremendous crowds greeted Gov. Beckham and Hon. Ruby Laffoon at Burkesville, Albany, Jamestown, Monticello and Somerset. Democrats of the Eleventh district have been stired as never before, and they are now in the fight and will keep busy until the election. From a number of sources we are informed that the Republican majority in the Eleventh will be greatly reduced.

Every school teacher in Kentucky who expects to continue following the profession should vote the Democratic ticket. The Democratic party believes in educating the boys and girls and also believes their instructors should be paid liberally for their services.

Mr. G. T. Jarvis, of Romine, Taylor county, was nominated by the Republicans in a convention held at Lebanon, to represent the counties of Marion, Taylor and Washington in the State Senate. Mr. Jarvis is a native of Knox County.

The Democratic party is the party of the people and is for the people. It is opposed to high taxes, trusts and combines. The Republican party believes in taxing the poor to keep up the rich. Take your choice.

Some Democratic papers in the State predict that Hager's majority for Governor will be the largest any candidate has received for that position for many years.

The broadest and most useful sphere in which a local paper can serve its community is that which arouses a desire for better public conditions.

Senator J. B. McCreary will make a number of speeches for the Democratic ticket. He will also tour the State with Hon. W. J. Bryan.

Judge Judson S. Harmon, of Ohio, and Senator Carmack, of Tennessee, will come to Kentucky. They are two big men of the nation.

The widow of Gen. Joseph H. Lewis died in Washington, D. C., Wednesday of last week. Her remains were interred at Frankfort.

Judge Yeost and Hon. W. J. Stone are back in line, making speeches for the Democratic ticket.

The Wayne County Baptist Association endorsed the candidacy of Judge S. W. Hager.

Gov. Beckham spoke at Glasgow Monday and at Edmonton yesterday.

BRAIN LEAKS.

A contented workman earns
his wages.

Sanctification does not mean exclusiveness.

A church letter is small recommendation.

A yawn from the pew man
mean somnolency in the pulpit.

When it means sacrifice to give
we can set it down as charity.

John Barleycorn still holds the championship belt as a fighter.

The richest man is the one who is satisfied with what he has.

Some men give; other men amputate themselves from their money.

A boy's first ambition is to play the snare drum in the village band.

Better be riding a hobby than to sit crumpling by the side of the road.

Honesty is the best policy only when it is not honesty for policy's sake

The Christian spends in doing
the time that the church member spends in posing.

Men who never work are prone to grow eloquent on the subject of the dignity of labor.

When a man's children run to meet him it is a pretty good sign that he is all right.

The average man is surprised that the world does not stop whirling when he gets into trouble.

A whole lot of men are in a hurry to get now where to do something that does not need to be done.

We expect to take our summer vacation the week after the standard oil company pays that fine.

Automobile jokes are growing scarce. The automobile has grown altogether too serious for jokes.

After all it is enlightened selfishness to reach down and lift up.
The man lifted up can not drag
you down.

When a man wants to turn a dishonest trick he has no trouble in finding an excuse that will satisfy his conscience.

Next to the man with a grievance the greatest bore is the man who will not sympathize with you when you tell yours.

The man who can see nothing but fun in life never amounts to much; the man who can see no fun at all in life never amounts to anything.

Some men excuse profanity on the ground that it is a safety valve on their temper. But the more they swear the more the escape valve is called upon to act.

About the nearest thing to perpetual motion that we have been able to find is this thing of thrusting one's hand into one's pocket to pay out the money earned by tween reaching.

Some of these days we are going to meet up with a defeated candidate who is just as glad to see us he was before his defeat, and then we will know who our preferred candidates for something better is.

THE PHILIPPINES AT HOME

A glimpse of the Philippines
at home—a typical Igorrote Village, 25 primitive wild people living just as they are found today in the almost impassable mountains of Northern Luzon—

is the rare treat which is promised the visitors to our state fair
this fall.

The results of the United States' war with Spain is now a matter of history known to every schoolboy, yet few people can realize that there are 2,000 islands in the group inhabited by many strange people speaking many different languages and having a diversity of customs.

The Igorrote Village will exhibit with some detail the actual life of one of the primitive peoples found among the mountains 300 miles North of Manila.

The natives will be found living in their stave-thatched huts, manufacturing their spears, head-axes, and pottery, weaving cloth and making pipes. Sham battles, spear throwing, making fire by friction, and many other features of their tribal life will amuse and entertain both old and young.

the Igorrote is an eater of dogs,
a hunter of human heads, and a pagan in religion, yet he is very likable in character and is noted for his honesty, industry and good humor.

The little brown people should not be neglected by those who wish to see man in his primitive simplicity.

A Humane Appeal

A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind.,
Mr. U. D. Williams, 107 West Main St., says: "I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me, and fully comes up to the proprietor's recommendation." It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as a cough and cold cure the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, hoarseness, and phthisis, stops hemorrhages of the lungs, and builds them up. Guaranteed at T. E. Paul's drug store. 50c and $1 trial bottle free.

THE BLAME IS KENTUCKY'S.

There are resolutions to show
for it that the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association has no sympathy with the acts of the night raiders. Editorials and eloquent speeches in denunciation of their course have been supplied in abundance. The number of public meetings held for the washing of hands of all such diabolical occurrences has not been few.

It is evident therefore, that so far as Western Kentucky is concerned, the force of public sentiment is inimical to these gentlemen who appear as willing to assassinate women and children as their fathers and brothers who chance to differ with them as to the need for or meaning of protection for the oppressed tobacco grower.

So far as records go, there is no overwhelming sentiment in the mountains, the Bluegrass, Frankford or Louisville in favor of the continuance of the night raiders' playful methods. Apparently, Kentucky is a unit in its opposition, but, as far as results go, Kentucky might as well be a party to the crimes, which for months, have gone unpunished,
to the vast discredit of the state,
— Lou, Times.

Occasional headache, belching, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite and slight nervousness are symptoms of indigestion which, when allowed to go uncared for, will develop into a case of dyspepsia that will take a long time to get rid of. Don't neglect your stomach.
At the first indication of trouble take something that will help it along in its work of digesting the food you eat.
Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia will do this. Kodol will make your food do you good and will enable you to enjoy what you eat. Sold by Page & Dohoney.
